Detailed Itinerary:

Saturday January 20, 2024

Join Dr. Pablo Jaramillo Lopez for a scientist-led journey to the colony of the Sierra Chincua Monarch Butterfly Biosphere. Learn about the migration, monarch habitat, biology, scientific theories & hypotheses and most importantly how you can personally assist these phenomenal creatures maintain their breeding grounds through our daily choices. Price is $3600

MXN per person, which includes return transportation from San Miguel de Allende, Dr. Jaramillo's expertise and tour to the colony, entrance fees, and a traditional lunch in the park. 40% of your tour price is donated to Dr. Jaramillo's research, which you will have the chance to learn about while you are on this tour.

This tour departs San Miguel de Allende at 7 AM, arriving at Sierra Chincua at approximately 11 AM. Please bring snacks and water. We will stop for bathroom breaks along the way. The tour with Dr. Jaramillo begins with a warm beverage and educational introduction, before heading into the reserve for observation. Upon returning to the parking lot, a traditional lunch will include a sampling of different menu items, such as quesedillas with squash flowers & huitlacoche, chicken, rice, mole, atole and more. We will enjoy an insightful discussion, and conclusive discussion before you head back to San Miguel de Allende. This is a full tour, but one that will leave you feeling informed and hopeful about our ability to participate in bettering our environment through conscious choices.

We hope you have enjoyed your fun adventure and will join us for future travels!
